

PhD-Student Conference in Economics and Business
EB-UMA 2023
University of Malaga (Spain)

Special Session on Political Economy and Welfare Economics

Political Economy and Welfare Economics deal with the design and analysis of institutions, highlighting their influence on individual behavior and their ultimate consequences on collective welfare. It combines diverse techniques, adopts a normative or positive point of view according to authors and themes, and has a strong interdisciplinary vocation, which brings it closer to political science, philosophy, and mathematical logic.

We invite proposals on the above, including topics such as (but not limited to):

- Mechanism Design
- Analysis of Collective Decision Making
- Publicly Provided Goods
- Fiscal Policies and Behavior of Economic Agents
- Game Theory and Bargaining Theory
- Measuring welfare and individual wellbeing
- Behavioral welfare economics

The sessions will be organized in a way that both presenters and the audience benefit from a constructive and appreciative discussion. The format will consist of some presentations and a brief subsequent discussion to encourage the exchange of ideas on the proposed models and the results obtained.

Both the written communications and the oral presentations corresponding to this session must be made in English.
