

To whom it may concern:

In this section, we are delighted to inform you about the teaching and research staff opportunities in the Department of Applied Economics offered by the University of Málaga in the field of Economics. The accompanying table shows the wide variety of subjects we teach within different graduate and postgraduate programs in this field.

Subject	Degree
Economic Analysis of the Spanish and the World Economy	Business Management Degree
Economic Analysis of Tourism Markets	Business Management Degree
Economic Analysis of Markets in the Hotel and Catering Industries	Hospitality Management Degree
Introduction to Economics	Hospitality Management Degree
World Economy	Economics
Economic Analysis of the Spanish Economy	Economics
Economic Analysis of East Asia	Degree in East Asia
Introduction to Economics	Degree in Finance and Accountancy
Macroeconomics	Degree in Finance and Accountancy
Microeconomics	Degree in Finance and Accountancy
Economic Analysis of the Spanish and the World Economy	Degree in Finance and Accountancy
Introduction to Economics	Geography
Economics	Public Management Degree
International Economics	Degree in Marketing and Market Research
Economic Analysis of the Spanish Economy	Degree in Labour Relations and Human Resource Management
Economics of Education	Degree in Labour Relations and Human Resource Management
Labour Economics	Degree in Labour Relations and Human Resource Management
Introduction to Economics	Degree in Tourism
Economic Indicators in the Tourism Sector	Degree in Tourism
Economic Analysis of Tourism Markets	Degree in Tourism
Analysis of Supply in the Tourism Sector	Degree in Tourism
Microeconomics and Macroeconomics Applied to the Tourism Sector	Degree in Tourism
Economic Analysis of Tourism	Degree in Tourism
Economic Analysis of the Spanish and the World Economy	Joint Degree in Business Management and Law
World Economy	Joint Degree in Business Management and Economics
Economic Analysis of the Spanish Economy	Joint Degree in Business Management and Economics
Introduction to Economics	Joint Degree in Finance and Accountancy and Business Management
Microeconomics	Joint Degree in Finance and Accountancy and Business Management
Economic Analysis of the Spanish and the World Economy	Joint Degree in Finance and Accountancy and Business Management
Labour Economics	Master Degree in Economic Analysis
Cost-benefit Analysis	Master Degree in Economic Analysis

Economic Analysis of Tourism	Master Degree in Management and Planning in the Tourism Sector
Revenue Management	Master Degree in Management and Planning in the Tourism Sector
Research Methodologies	Master Degree in Management and Planning in the Tourism Sector
Essentials of Economics	Master Degree in Education
Online Distribution in the Tourism Sector	Master Degree in Electronic ETourism: Use of Technologies in Tourism Management and Distribution

Likewise, our main research lines are related to regional economic analysis and policy, interaction between tourism and environment, labour economics, gender economics, education, productivity and wages in the hospitality industry, development economics, life quality, educational mismatch in the labour market, and innovation among others. However, the appointed candidates will have total freedom to develop his/her own research line. You will find more information on our department here: <https://www.uma.es/departamento-de-economia-aplicada-estructura-economica/>.

The hiring process is highly regulated and we need to follow the regulations imposed by the University of Malaga and each of its Teaching centres. According to that regulation, positive evaluations to be a Phd Lecturer provided by ANECA is a compulsory prerequisite. Additionally, academic education, teaching experience related to economics, articles published in indexed journals and research visits to highly regarded universities and research centres are highly appreciated. As we use Spanish to teach most subjects within our department, fluency in Spanish will be required and if you are a non-Spanish citizen, an official certificate of your command of this language may be required. We highly recommend all potential candidates to carefully read the regulations related to the application process, deadlines and values assigned to each merit.

You will find that information here: <https://www.uma.es/personal-docente-e-investigador/cms/menu/seleccion-pdi/concursos-plazas-de-pdi/>

After being informed about the regulations mentioned above, if you need more information, do not hesitate to send an email to the Secretary of the Department of Applied Economics, Professor Juan Antonio Campos Soria. His email address is secret_est@uma.es.

We are looking forward to welcoming you at the Department of Applied Economics of the University of Malaga, where we hope you will build a successful teaching and researching career.

Sincerely,

Alejandro García Pozo

Head of the Department of Applied Economics (Economic Structure)