INTERNATIONAL WORKSHOP

GIS Applications and Religious Networks Analysis in Antiquity

14-15 MARCH 2024

Sala de Juntas "Manuel Rodríguez de Berlanga"
Facultad de Filosofía y Letras
Universidad de Málaga

Thursday, 14 March

10:30 - 13:30
Diana Damas
Construir redes narrativas: Claves para la divulgación científica sobre historia de las religiones

13.30
Lunch

Friday, 15 March

9.45 - 10.00
Welcome and Introduction

10.00 - 10.30
Tomáš Glomb (Masaryk University)
Roman portorium as a key predictor of Mithraic presence in the Alpine and Danubian provinces: A spatial network approach

10.30 - 11.00
Francesca Mazzilli (University of Münster)
José Carlos López Gómez (University of Málaga)
Exploring the interplay between Gods, Devotees and Spatial Networks in Lusitania

11.00 - 11.30
Debate

11.30 - 12.00
Coffee Break

12.00 - 12.30
Jamie Wood (University of Lincoln)
Braulio of Zaragoza's social networks: insights from his letter collection

12.30 - 13.00
David Natal (University of London)
'Better is a Neighbour who is Near'. Episcopal Networks and Social Capital in the Late Antique West

13.00 - 13.30
Debate

14.00
Lunch

16.00 - 16.30
Ariadna Guimerà (Autònoma University of Barcelona)
Pau de Soto (Autònoma University of Barcelona)
The Monastic Landscape of Late Antique Egypt: New approaches based on their geographical organization

16.30 - 17.00
Antón Alvar Nuño (University of Málaga)
Connecting the dots: Wandering priests as conveyors of news in post-roman Iberia

17.00 - 17.30
Pilar Diarte-Blasco (Instituto de Historia, CSIC)
Marta Pérez-Polo (University of Salamanca)
How can we analyse the Christianisation of the Middle Ebro Valley when you only have necropolis, some churches and supposed hermitages? An archaeological approach

17.30 - 18.00
Discussion

18.00
Final Remarks

Coordination:
José Carlos López Gómez

FACULTAD DE FILOSOFÍA Y LETRAS
uma.es

UNIVERSITAS MALACITANA

UNIVERSIDAD DE MÁLAGA

GOBIERNO DE ESPAÑA
MINISTERIO DE CIENCIA E INNOVACIÓN
Proyecto RHITA (PID2020-117597GB-I00)

DINORAMA

Contact and inscription
joslopez@uma.es